by John Stevens

A WOMAN and two men arrested in connection with the death of Essex doctor's third wife, Mrs Diane Jones

This was confirmed today in a statement from Suffolk police headquarters at Wartlesham, near Ipswich.

It said: «A woman and two men have been arrested and are being questioned by police in relation to the death of Mrs Jones.

Police would not reveal the identities of any of the three people.

Three detectives in an unmarked car and two uniformed officers in a police car arrived at Dr Jones's £ 90,000 farmhouse shortly before 8 a. m.

Wearing slacks, a blue-turtle neck sweater and a dark blue Crombie overcoat, Dr Jones was searched at the door before he was driven away in a police car.

Detectives also called at the home in the centre of Coggeshall of 35-year-old Sue Smith, Dr Jones's second wife, who is receptionist at his surgery in the village.

Her 40-year-old husband, antique dealer John, said: «My wife is now helping police with their enquiries. Their visit came as a complete surprise. She was certainly not expecting it.»

Mrs Jones, 35, vanished on July 23, after leaving the Woolpark public house near her £95,000 Lees Farm home with her husband.

Dr Jones said that he had dropped his wife off at the front door of their home while he put the car in the garage. When he got back she had gone.

Her body was found on October 21 in a wood at Sheep Drift Farm, Brightswell, near Ipswich, 35 miles from her home.

by Thomson Prentice

Two men and a woman were being interviewed last night in connection with the murder of Mrs Diane Jones, who vanished from her farmhouse home in Essex in July.

The police would not name them or confirm or deny whether they included her husband, Dr Robert Jones, who left his farmhouse with two detectives early yesterday morning.

Mr John Smith, an antique dealer, confirmed later that his wife Sue had been taken away by the police for questioning. Mrs Smith, who was formerly married to Dr Jones, is employed as receptionist at his surgery in Coggeshall, Essex.

The body of Mrs Jones, aged 35, was discovered three weeks ago in dense undergrowth at Brightswell, near Ipswich, Suffolk, 30 miles from her home.

Last night, the police would not elaborate on a brief statement issued earlier which said: «A woman and two men have been arrested and are being questioned in relation to the death of Mrs Jones.»
